TWO MORE GERMAN CHOLERA SUSPECTS

Taken Off s.s. Assuan In Quarantine Anchorage

COLOURFUL SCENES AT K.C.R. STATION

Within an hour of schedule, the international refugee train from Hankow, which left there on Tuesday, arrived at Kowloon Railway station this morning with some 300 passengers of all nationalities on board.

The train was originally due at noon and within a few minutes of 12.30, the station presented an animated spectacle, the platform being packed with a large crowd of relatives, and friends of those on board as well as representatives from the consuls of the various nationalities represented.

After several false alarms when shunting engines puffed round the bend in the line, the huge locomotive of the Hankow express came into view at 12.50 and steamed majestically into the station.

BUSTLE AND EXCITEMENT

Out of every window leaned eager women and children, anxiously scanning the throng on the platform for a sight of friend's or relatives.

In a few minutes disembarkation had taken place and all was bustle and excitement.

Occupying the first carriage after the locomotive, were a party of bearded and turbaned Indians. As one progressed down the platform one saw French marines and blue-jackets with picturesque tasselled caps, women in all manner of garbs, from beach-suits with sun tops, to the formal gowns usually associated by the masculine mind with garden and cocktail parties.

Burly men in serviceable shorts and tennis shirts and innumerable children, completed as variegated a throng as is ever seen in a limited space in Hong Kong.

Disembarkation started almost immediately. Those with connection with firms like Jardine's, were well catered for. All arrangements had been made for the transport of their luggage and they were whisked off with the minimum discomfort and inconvenience.

TOUCH OF PATHOS

A touch of pathos was provided by two Russian cabaret dancers, who were sitting dolefully on small baskets containing all their belongings. They told pressmen: "We are rather sorry

First Victim Succumbs To The Disease

One member of the crew of the German s.s. Assuan, now in quarantine following the discovery of an outbreak of cholera on board, has since died of the disease, the "China Mail" learned this afternoon.

The victim is M. I. Scheffer, who was admitted to the Infectious Disease Hospital on Friday last week, and was the first to be taken off the ship.

GERMAN-CHINA RELATIONS

Singapore, To-day.

The Daily Telegraph's Berlin correspondent states that political circles in Berlin are certain that Dr. Trautmann will not return to his Chinese post and will not be succeeded. It is unlikely that diplomatic relations with China will be broken off but Germany's sympathy with Japan will be shown by leaving a Charge D'Affaires without Ambassadorial rank with the Chinese Government.—Reutro.

FAIR GENERALLY

The Royal Observatory reports that a shallow depression is stationary over Tongking; the typhoon is situated 200 miles S.S.W. of Tokyo, moving north-eastward. forecast:—S. W. winds, moderate; fair generally.

to leave Hankow as really it is quite quiet up there. We will only stay here for a few days and we are then off, probably to Shanghai where we hope to find something to do."

Down the platform on crutches went a tall, angular American bluejacket grinning all over his face. His right foot was in a plaster-of-paris cast. "No, I'm not a war casualty," he said. "Merely fell over a trunk."

CANTON APPREHENSIVE

Canton, To-day.

Canton was thrown into a state of apprehension by the sudden appearance of an unknown number of Japanese planes which paid a lightening visit after two hours bombing of the railways. Apparently no bombs were dropped by the raiders who were visible above thick lowlying clouds but the A. A. batteries went into action firing blindly.

Crowds of Chinese are flocking on to the Bund opposite Shameen fearing the visit is only a prelude to a further raid. This is the first appearance of Japanese planes over Canton since last Wednesday. The All Clear sounded at 10.30 a.m.

The International Refugee Train from Hankow is believed to be somewhere in the vicinity of Canton.—From Our Staff Representative.

Since then three further patients have been admitted to the Infectious Diseases Hospital. One of them, Helmut Eggert, was removed from the ship on Monday, and is a serious condition. Yesterday, two further suspect cases were removed to hospital, one of them named Brandt and the other Behrand.

It is understood that the Assuan has some thirty-five

European members in its crew, now confined to the ship in the quarantine anchorage.

Diary Of A Lady

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN

Monday—Sometimes I feel like the old man who always got up at the crack of dawn. Said he, "I've got just so much sitting to do, so I may as well be up and at it." It's nice to just sit once in a while and get organised. And it's a grand way to pull a room together. Try to stop at odd minutes during the day, and sink down in a comfortable spot and study a room objectively. More good ideas come then.

BOYKIN 5-21

Just so much sitting to do.

Tuesday—Went out to a very modern house. Meet a demure little thing who takes a lot of pride in her gardening, and a little girl, Hesper, who has golden braids and brown eyes. I enjoyed their iced tea because it was made with green tea—try it sometime for a summer afternoon. Nice with rye bread.

Wednesday—Never can figure out the lure of the universal stores. I haunt them. Maybe it's because I can buy and buy to my heart's content and never really spend a lot. But even more perplexing is my penchant for Woolworth stores in foreign countries. You'd think I'd concentrate on the cathedrals and palaces. Or at least on the odd unusual shops. But I'm always gravitating to them—in Berlin, London or Tokyo. And where the same gim-cracks are sold. I alibi by saying that it gives me an idea of foreign household needs and customs, which it does. But I'd probably go anyway. I blush to admit it, but there you are.

Thursday—Looked at bedding today and yearned for all-over flowered percale sheets and pillow cases. And fine, fine white wool blankets.

Friday—Finished up the needlepoint for a low long bench to go in front of the fireplace. . . . Victorian garlands of flowers with a soft blue ground, and very pretty, say I modestly.

Saturday—My sister brought me the nicest present this morning—an old Dresden china clock that really keeps good time and chimes in the quaintest tinkle, besides being charming to look at. It's my ambition to have a clock in every room in the house.

In making cake, sour milk may be used the same as sweet milk, if one-third teaspoon of soda is added to each cup of sour milk.

"Usually the guy that fills the bill," says Reno Ritzi, "can't pay the bills."

Flowers Gain Popularity

Paris, A flower in the pocket, is worth two on the shoulder. And daisies rank over orchids as far as Paris dressmakers are concerned.

Not since the 1900s has the use of artificial flowers assumed such importance as a decorative detail. Flowered prints are definitely giving way to stripes and geometrical designs, but separate flowers become better than ever. Perhaps Molyneux should receive credit for starting the boom on the flower market, for it was he who brought the lily of the valley to the front and it was he who slung huge flower boas around the necks of his summer evening gowns.

But now the blossoms are slipping into pockets. Molyneux put six varicoloured tulips into the large patch pocket which stretched nearly across the front of a pale yellow circular skirt. The same versatile designer strung a row of dainty white daisies across the top of a pocket on a black silk dress.

Deep red roses blossom from the diagonally slit pocket placed high on the bosom of a pale blue backless pique dress by Vera Borea.

Maggy Rouff modifies the flower boa by making a collar of lilac blossoms fastened firmly to a black dinner jacket which buttons down the front to an almost tunic length. When the jacket is taken off, a delicate crossed spray of lilacs is left on the dress to mark the low—very low—decolletage. Tiny white artificial blossoms form a veritable bandeau around another Rouff gown.

To iron any lace, stretch the lace and place it, still damp and wrong side up, on a piece of soft, thick, cotton material. Then cover with a clean dry cloth and use a moderately hot iron to iron with.

Individual fruit salads are most attractive and delicious when served with a ball of cream cheese sprinkled with cinnamon.

'Smart Talk' On Brides, Coiffures Concentrate On Veil And Headdress

This being a season of sentimental fashions, gentle femininity and all that makes for a "picture book wedding" brides should definitely take advantage of the softly flattering and romantic trends. This is the year when the wedding veil has come into its own. So, if you're to be a summer bride, do hold out for a veil!

Marriages are made, it's true, in tailored suits. Many of them turn out satisfactory, but there's nothing quite like the tender remembrance of yourself walking down the aisle a celestial being in a floating veil.

Remember Coiffure

Be sure, though, your coiffure lives up to the beauty of your veil, that its ringlets complete the softly harmonious effect. Picture yourself perhaps with flat, clustered ringlets shining through a sheer hood reminiscent of Evangeline. Or maybe you'll choose a garland of blossoms with a circular veil that just hits your shoulder line. Then, let a shower of dancing curls cover your crown.

Again, you may follow the peasant influence and wear simple babushka like kerchief veil just to show that you can be lovely without artifice. In that case be certain to give yourself the benefit of coiffure perfection. Part your hair softly in the middle and let the soft tendrils creep out over your cheeks.

Start Off With Permanent

Most important of all, start the whole affair with the best permanent you can get because you'll want to keep your loveliness long months after your wedding.

A great many smart people these days seem most exultant about the machineless permanent which is given with absolutely no machines, wires or electricity. The scientific little pads which are placed on your head for this method of waving heat themselves and automatically bathe your hair in a clean, colourless vapor while you walk about perfectly free, and the wave that results is deep and long lasting.

So plan your picturesque wedding, concentrate on your veil especially and make sure, doubly sure, of your wedding day and after coiffure!

Hybrid tea rose bushes thrive well in partial shade. They give good results if they get direct sunlight for three or four hours a day.

To keep the rocking chair from creaking, glue or tack a small piece of felt along the bottom of each rocker.

It's the daily dose that does it, says Anne Shirley, the eighteen-year-old RKO star, shown above under instruction from her P.T. instructor. Anne is appearing in "Condemned Women" locally soon.

If a thick cloth or towel is placed at the bottom of the pan in which delicate china or glass is being washed, the danger of chipping will be lessened. This will also prevent silver from being scratched.

It is not necessary to dip liver quickly in boiling water to make in making scones or doughnuts, mix the meat firm and easier to handle, then up the night before and set it dipped in seasoned flour and pan them in the refrigerator. They will be light and tender and delicious. It takes only a few minutes to cook it through by the usual method.

"SABLE CICADA"

The Prime Minister, the Opposition Leader, the Secretary Mr. Winston Churchill and others took part in the animated scene which followed.

Mr. C. R. Attlee, and Sir Percy Harris, for Liberal Opposition, both called attention to what they regard as a curious circumstance, that while the House had taken cognisance of certain incidents and on the motion of the Prime Minister himself, was to set up a select committee to enquire into these matters, the Army Council for which the War Secretary and the whole Government must take responsibility, had set up a Tribunal to enquire into cognate questions and had summoned a Member of the House to appear before it in his military capacity.

AUTOMATIC PROCEEDING

The Prime Minister contended his appointment of a Military Court of Enquiry was almost an automatic proceeding and he and Mr. Hore Belisha argued there was no question of a Court of Enquiry trespassing upon the privileges of the House or interfering with the enquiry of the select Committee which was directed to quite a different question.

"The purpose of the Court of Enquiry," the Secretary said was to ascertain if, and if so how, a Officer in the British Army had committed a breach of trust.

It was in the public interest that such an enquiry should be held at once, because it could not serve any purpose that a leakage of secret information should be allowed without proper investigation being made.

GUIDANCE TO MEMBER

Mr. Churchill and other members drew attention to the need for immediate guidance to Mr. Sandys, who was under military orders to attend the Court in the morning. He appealed to the Premier to cancel the order and said otherwise he presumed the House and Mr. Speaker would see that privilege protected Member for Norwood, in not complying with the order.

The Prime Minister later announced that the War Secretary had agreed to ask the Army Council to suspend the summons to Mr. Sandys, as a Territorial Officer, until the Committee of Privileges had reported on the prima facie case of a breach of privilege which the Speaker ruled had been made out.

Several Members recalled incidents on the lone struggle of Parliament to establish its privileges against the Crown and Executive and insisted that an issue of comparable gravity had arisen, but Sir Arnold Wilson, Conservative Member for Hitchin, suggested the country as opposed to the House, was mainly concerned to see that, if any servant of the Crown had acted in dereliction of his duty, he should be brought before a competent court.—British Wireless.

OPIUM IN PORK SAUSAGES

Marseilles, To-day.
Concealed in a consignment of pork sausages unloaded from a Yugoslav ship, 940 pounds of opium were seized by the authorities. The man to whom the sausages were addressed was arrested.

It is reported that the Custom officials became suspicious of the shipment on account of the unusual colour of the sausage.—Reuter.

BRITAIN AND FALL IN CHINESE DOLLAR

London, To-day.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Sir J. S. Wardlaw Milne called attention to the serious fall of the Shanghai dollar and asked whether the Chancellor of Exchequer would ask the Economic Adviser of the Government to pay special attention to the effect on British trade thereby?

In reply, Captain Euan Wallace said that the Government was fully aware of the effect on British trade and of the present situation in China, including the fall of the Shanghai dollar.—Reuter.

MATTER UNDER CONSIDERATION

London, To-day.

The Prime Minister, questioned in the Commons regarding the attacks on British ships on Monday, said: "According to the Foreign Secretary's information, the harbour of Valencia was raided by aircraft flying high and the British tanker Arlon was set on fire. The s.s. Farnham was struck in a raid at Alicante. The Government has already announced a proposed consultation with Sir Robert Hodgson on the whole question of the attacks on British ships.—British Wireless.

WIDESPREAD HAVOC OF RAINS IN TOKYO

Tokyo, To-day.

Widespread havoc, including the inundation of more than 100,000 houses in the Tokyo district and the disruption of railways and telephones in various parts of the country, has been caused by the severest rainfall experienced in 20 years.

A storm is heading for Tokyo and is expected to strike before morning.

Many roads have been rendered impassable while a number of bridges, including 11 in the Tokyo district have been washed away.

Although the material damage has been enormous, loss of life has been comparatively small. A landslide demolished a school house in Yokosuka, killing two children.

All schools in the Tokyo district were closed at noon, while thousands of people who were unable to reach their homes outside Tokyo, were forced to spend the night in the capital.—Reuter.

AIR RAID ALARM IN CANTON

Canton, To-day.

An air raid alarm was sounded in Canton at 8.15 a.m. and Japanese planes were observed shortly afterwards. They dropped no bombs, however, but proceeded in the direction of the Canton-Hankow Railway.

Yesterday, seven planes heavily bombed Tintienwei, near Sheldung, and 30 villagers were killed and fifty wounded.—Reuter.

GOVERNMENT TEMPORISES IN REPLY ON BRITISH RIGHTS IN YANGTSE

London, To-day.

Mr. A. E. L. Chorlton, in the House of Commons, asked whether the Prime Minister was aware that, according to International Law, the Japanese have no right to interfere with neutral shipping on the Yangtse River, particularly having regard to the fact that they are not technically at war with China.

The Prime Minister was also asked whether he was prepared to give an undertaking that no British man-of-war shall be removed from the Yangtse without its replacement by an equivalent unit?

Mr. R. A. Butler, replying, referred Mr. Chorlton to his reply, given on March 24, with regard to the treaty position and added: "The movement of British ships in the Far East lies within the discretion of the Commander-in-Chief, China Station, which Lord Halifax would not wish to limit."—Reuter.

MUSSOLINI'S VOLUNTEER DECISION

Paris, To-day.

A report that Signor Mussolini has declared willingness to withdraw Italian volunteers not only from the Spanish front, but also from the entire country, is prominently featured in the press here.

It is stated that this decision was reached when the Italian General Staff reported that Franco's victory now was merely a question of time, and that this time can be shortened if the Non-Intervention Committee takes steps to cut off war supplies from being delivered to the Republicans.

The opinion prevails that Franco no longer needs Italian assistance as far as infantry is concerned, although he could not, at present, dispense with Italian fliers.

The papers state that the Italian willingness to make concessions is motivated by the desire to bring the Anglo-Italian Agreement into effect as soon as possible.—Trans-Ocean.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR'S VISIT TO THE GAIMUSHO

Spokesman Later Denies Mr. Butler's Statement

British Attitude On Threat To Hainan

Tokyo, To-day.

Yesterday's conversations between the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie, and the Japanese Foreign Minister, General Ugaki, was confined to a discussion on the general situation in the Far East and of British interests in China, according to the Foreign Office spokesman, who expressly denied the reports circulated abroad that England and France had either jointly or individually made representations to the Japanese Government concerning eventual Japanese action in the island of Hainan or elsewhere in South China.

The spokesman, nevertheless, admitted that any such action would be calculated to arouse uneasiness in London on account of its possible repercussions in Hong Kong and Singapore.—Trans-Ocean.

BRITAIN, ITALY AND BOMBING OF BRITISH SHIPS

Rome, To-day.

A vigorous reply is made by Signor Gayda in yesterday's issue of "Giornale d'Italia," to assertions appearing in the London press to the effect that Lord Perth had been instructed to inform Count Ciano that Britain would hold Italy in part responsible for the air bombing in Spain and make the Anglo-Italian pact dependent upon Italian intervention to terminate these aerial attacks.

It may be, writes Signor Gayda, that the British Ambassador asked the Italian Government to use its influence with Franco to impose certain controls on his aerial warfare. Count Ciano's reply, however, was not an improvised one, but a reaffirmation of the guiding principles of Italian policy.

The conduct of the war must be left in the hands of General Franco. — Trans-Ocean.

BRITAIN'S APPROACH

London, To-day.

Reports that the British Ambassador in Rome had seen the Italian Foreign Minister on Tuesday night and called his attention to the effect on British opinion of the recent series of attacks on British merchant shipping in ports and Territorial waters of the Government of Spain by the bombing planes of General Franco are confirmed in official circles.

Lord Perth's remarks were received by Count Ciano in a friendly spirit and it is understood that while the latter pointed out that the armed forces of insurgent Spain were entirely under General

Paris, To-day.

The question of any attempt at occupation by the Japanese of the island of Hainan is dealt with by the diplomatic correspondent of "Le Journal" who observes that the military cooperation of France and England extends also to the Far East. According to the correspondent, it would probably have sufficed if England had informed Tokyo that she entirely shared the French point of view as to the grave consequences which must result from any aggressive action by Japan in Hainan.

MUTUAL AID

It is further stated, with satisfaction, that, in case of need, England and France would lend each other all mutual assistance required by the circumstances.

Such a statement in the correspondent's opinion is equivalent to a proclamation of a regular military alliance between the two countries.

England occupies a key position in Hong Kong, while under the terms of the Franco-Japanese Treaty of 1907, French interest in Hainan was recognised.

NO ILLUSION

According to the correspondent, it was well to leave Japan under no illusion concerning the possible consequences of any aggressive action on her part in the region in question. The warnings uttered in this connection by the French and British Governments had, says the correspondent, met with the full approbation of the United States, as was shown by the visit paid to the Quai d'Orsay by the American Ambassador in Paris.—Trans-Ocean.

Franco's orders, Lord Perth was assured that the Italian Government were most willing to do anything within their power to assist in this matter and to use their influence at Burgos for this purpose.—British Wireless.

JAPANESE MONOPOLISTIC ENTERPRISES

London, To-day.

In the House of Commons, Sir J. S. Wardlaw Milne asked whether the Prime Minister had received a full report from the Ambassador in China on the Japanese wool monopoly in North China.

Mr. R. A. Butler replied that Lord Halifax had instructed the British Ambassador in China to keep him fully informed of developments.

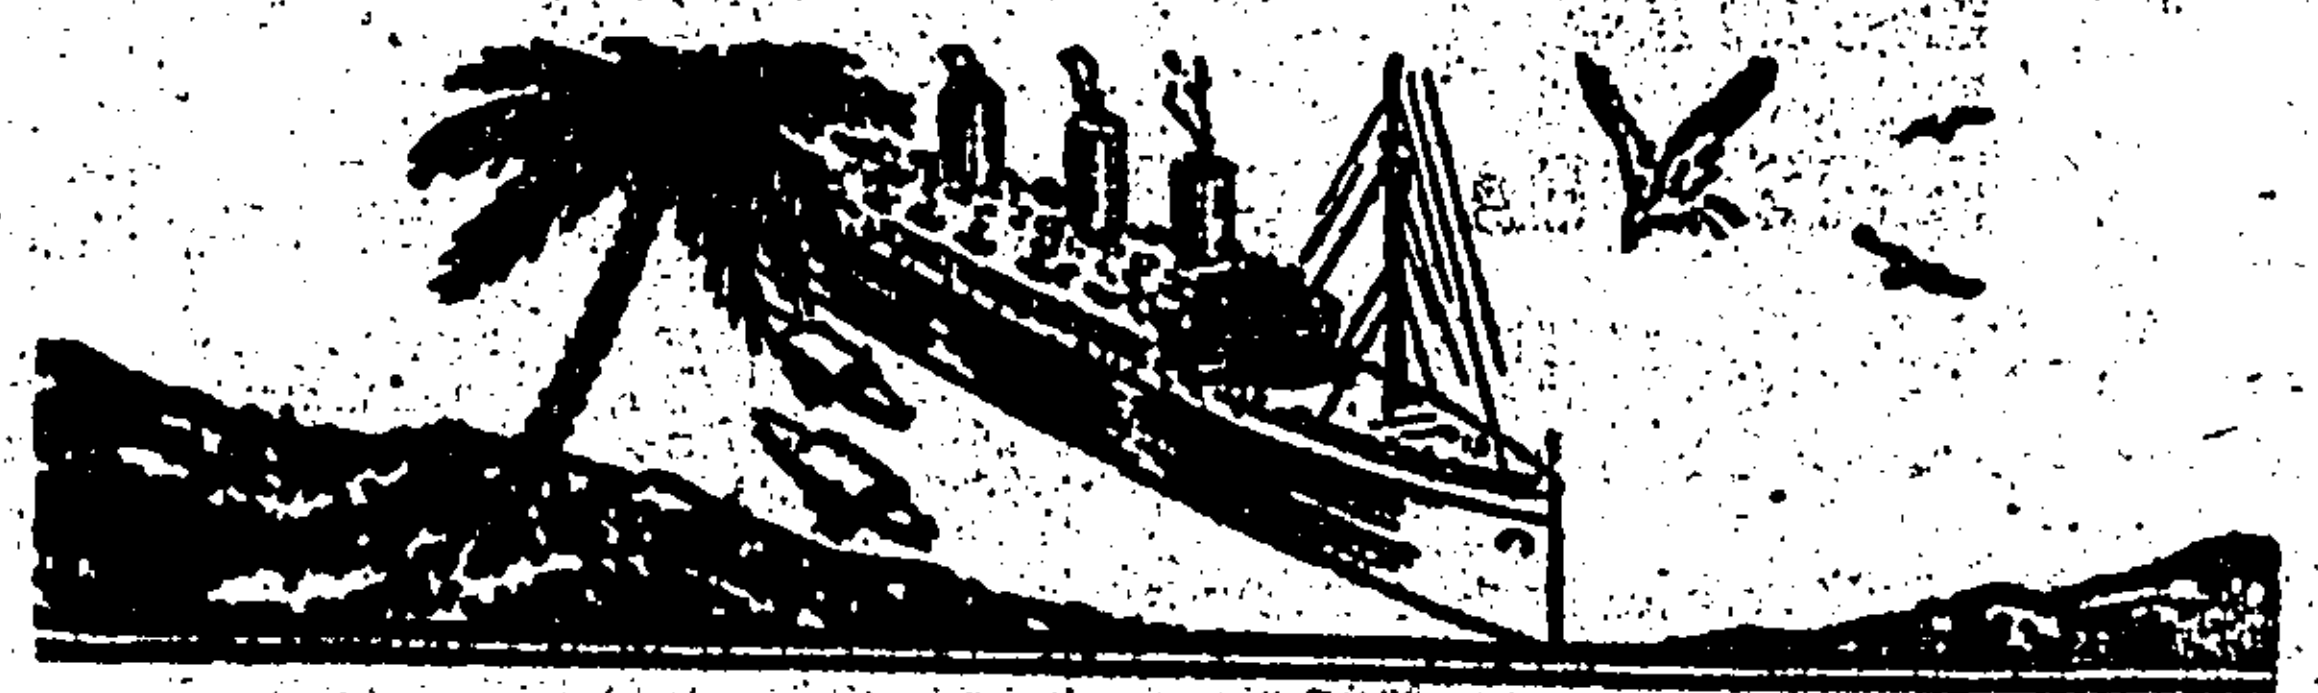

Meanwhile the Ambassador had reported that while there appeared to be a tendency towards Japanese monopolistic practice in North China, there was yet little evidence of any damage to British trade on this account.—Reuter.

TURKISH ENTRY INTO SANJAK

Istanbul, To-day.

The entry of Turkish troops into the Sanjak which has been expected for a long time will, so it was declared here yesterday, now take place this morning. It is asserted that Turkey secured the acceptance of the demand that a Turkish force of the same numerical strength as the French garrison in the Sanjak may enter the Sanjak.

The Turkish troops will occupy the northern part of the Sanjak.—Trans-Ocean.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

MAIL RIDER

YOUNG Eben Glifford drew rein and studied the broad valley of the Hoosick at his feet. An hour ago he had abandoned the trail made by his predecessors on their ride from Bennington to Albany, and skirted the western shoulder of Mount Anthony. If Indians were waiting to ambush him, Eben felt sure they would choose the Hoosick. It offered a means of escape, should the mail rider by any chance be accompanied by an escort.

But Eben was not so fortunate. The detachment of soldiers that had come up from Fort Dummer following news of the Indian uprising had returned, and Bennington could spare not a single man from its garrison.

Eben felt once more of the leather pouch that was tied behind the saddle. Contained therein was a dispatch of the utmost importance for General Newton at Albany. Colonel Allbee of the Bennington garrison had called Eben aside that morning.

"No one is supposed to know you're carrying the papers, Eben. An escort would only excite suspicion. You must go alone. There is, of course, the possibility that Bonney, the white renegade, and his Indian cutthroats, have learned what I'm up to. In any event, if you're attacked, destroy the papers."

"There'll be no need to destroy them, sir. I'll get through." Eben had been full of confidence and boyish eagerness then. The danger entailed didn't occur to him until he circled the base of Mount Anthony on the north. Then he discovered fresh marks of unshod horses in the trail. That meant Indians.

He sat for a long time studying the valley without moving. A curious sense of excitement stirred his blood. Without knowing why, he sensed danger. A minute later he glimpsed a column of smoke rising from the summit of a hill across the valley. The first puff detached itself and was followed by another, then a third.

A signal fire! They had sighted him. Eben sucked in his breath. Well, his chances of getting through were pretty slim now. There was only one ford in the Hoosick that was accessible at this time of year. They'd never let him cross it. The sensible thing to do was to turn back and insist upon an escort.

A thin smile played across his lips. Sensible, but now advisable. Folks at Bennington wouldn't understand. Especially Jim Lloyd, who was trying to win the favour of Rosalie Seymore, to whom Eben was engaged.

Eben clucked to his horse, turning him south. He kept to the high ground for an hour, watching the smoke signal, studying the country below for signs of life. Before the hour passed, the signalling had stopped. They must have lost sight of him. Curious, he thought, how important he'd suddenly become.

It was past noon when Eben dipped down into the valley. He didn't stop to eat, but kept steadily ahead. By 1.30 he had reached the Hoosick, several miles below the ford. He paused here and rested his horse, thinking about Bonney, the white raider, wondering if it would occur to the renegade leader to post sentries north and south of the ford.

Then explored the river for half a mile in both directions, pausing frequently to listen for sounds from the opposite shore. But there was no indication of life on either side. Returning to his hiding place, he removed his shoes and stockings, strapped ped hard and held. Eben breathed a sigh of relief.

After a momentary pause he urged the beast toward the west bank. Ten feet from his goal he drew rein sharply. A loose stone had come tumbling down from the high bank. Eben sat very still, his heart pounding. A feathered bonnet showed above the embankment.

Eben swore under his breath, yanked sharply on the reins and sent his horse plunging into the stream. The embankment sprang to life. A dozen or more Indians came scrambling and yelling down toward the water edge. Eben ducked low. Arrows whistled above his head. The roar of muskets thundered against his ears.

BY STANLEY
CORDELL

He tried frantically to get his mount toward the east bank, but the river sheared off here; the strength of the current was against him. The Indians were running along the bank, howling and screaming. In another moment he'd be swept against the high west bank and they'd be upon him.

Remembering Col. Allbee's instructions, Eben unstrapped the leather mail pouch, gripped it tightly and flung himself from the back of the floundering horse. Instantly water swept over his head. He swam as long and as far as he could beneath the surface. Then he bobbed into view and a sense of dismay sent his heart downward. He was within three feet of the west bank. A leering Indian was reaching out toward him.

Dimly, as he went under again, Eben heard a chorus of wild shouts. He stayed below until he thought his lungs would burst. Then he fought his way to the surface.

He was far below the spot where the Indian had stood, but equally as close to the bank. To his amazement there were soldiers standing there yelling and gesticulating. One of them was Gen. Newton. The sound of gunfire came from upriver.

"Thought you might have seen their smoke signal and realised they had sighted us," Gen. Newton was saying. "Figured Bonney would be up to something, so I led a detachment out to meet you."

Eben sank to the ground. It was good to rest.

R.A.Y. VISITS KIUKIANG

Matang Hostilities Visible From Kuling Heights

No Question Yet Of Evacuation Of Foreigners

Hankow, To-day.

After an inspection trip to Kiukiang lasting for three days, Rear-Admiral R. V. Holt, of the Yangtze Patrol, has returned to Hankow aboard H.M.S. Gnat.

Despite severe fighting at Matang, the situation at Kiukiang, the Rear Admiral said, was more or less normal and at present there was no question of evacuation of foreigners from the zone.

A British gunboat is still standing by at Kiukiang.

Air raid alarms at Kiukiang, said Rear-Admiral Holt, were a frequent occurrence and wild rumours, usually without foundation, persisted daily.

He revealed that it was possible for foreigners, on a clear day, to see the hostilities at Matang from the heights of Kuling.

Both Kuling and Kiukiang, however, were very quiet and practically normal conditions prevailed.—Reuter.

TROOPS MOVED TO SHANHAIKWAN

Peiping, To-day.

An undisclosed number of troop-trains carrying Japanese troops and artillery arrived at Shanhaikwan from the Tientsin area yesterday and to-day.

This movement from North China is causing much speculation, but it is believed to be connected with movements of guerillas from points northwest of Peking towards Shanhaikwan, with the avowed object of severing communications between Peking and Mukden.—Reuter.

JAPANESE IN RETREAT

Chengchow, To-day.

After the Chinese recapture of Yushih, 45 kilometres south-west of Kaifeng, Japanese troops are now in full retreat.—Central News.

HONAN MANOEUVRING

Hankow, To-day.

Fengmenkou, 20 kilometres west of Tsiyuan, and on the north bank of the Yellow River, in north-western Honan, opposite Loyang, was captured by the Japanese on Tuesday afternoon, according to a Chinese military communique.

It is claimed, however, that Tsiyuan still remains in Chinese hands.—Reuter.

JAPANESE ATTEMPT LANDING

Kweichih, To-day.

Japanese marines made another abortive attempt to land at Yuanyangho, east of Kweichih, on the south bank of the Yangtze River above Wuhu yesterday.

Under the cover of a naval barrage and aerial bombardment, the invaders in pinnaces approached the shore but were repelled by machine-gun fire.

Early yesterday morning, Japanese naval aircraft were active over villages in the vicinity of Tungling, where they dropped bombs.

Other Japanese machines raided the villages near Huangshan, east of Hsiangshan.—Central News.

MATANG FIGHTING

Hankow, To-day.

Severe fighting is continuing at Matang. The Japanese, according to a Chinese official communique, are still landing troops at Hsiang-kou, apparently for the purpose of consolidating their position at Matang and preventing the Chinese from attacking their rear.

On the north bank of the Yangtze, the Japanese are renewing their westward drive towards Taihu from Anking.

HEAVY ARTILLERY

The Chinese positions at Ching-shiapailou are stated to have been attacked on Tuesday morning by some 2,000 Japanese troops advancing westward. Bringing heavy artillery into action, the Chinese claim to have repulsed the attacks of the Japanese, who then sent two columns to the Chinese wings in an attempt to outflank the Chinese defenders. The communique states that this attack was also repulsed.—Reuter.

PLANE SHOT DOWN

Nanchang, To-day.

A Japanese plane was shot down during a dogfight with Chinese planes over the Poyang Lake in north Kiangsi yesterday.

The plane was one of six which raided Hsingtze, 40 kilometres south of Kiukiang. It was intercepted over the lake.—Central News.

BIG LANDING IMMINENT

Tsingyang, To-day.

A large-scale Japanese landing on the south bank of the Yangtze River, either at Tatung or Tungliu, is believed imminent as there is a heavy concentration of boats and warships at both places.

At Yangshanchi near Tatung, more than 100 Japanese boats and rafts have been massed, apparently for use in a projected landing.

About 30 warships are now anchored near Tungliu. Thirteen others, five from Tikang, four from Tatung and four from Kweichih, yesterday proceeded upriver to Tungliu.—Central News.

JUNE'S LOW RAIN RECORD

Unless a heavy downpour occurs in the course of the day, this month is likely to go on record as one of the driest Junes in the history of the Colony.

From June 1 to 10 a.m. to-day, only 2.99 inches of rain had been recorded against an average of approximately 15 inches. The lowest rainfall ever recorded in June was 2.835 inches in 1901.

The heat record, too, nears challenge. Yesterday, a maximum of 92 degrees was again registered, and the thermometer has hovered round the 90 mark for a fortnight.

INTENSE HEAT IN CANTON

Canton, To-day.

Shameen and the city of Canton are suffering from the intense heat for they are without the benefits of any electric fans, as the power is cut off everytime an alarm sounds.

The disease situation is fortunately under control, owing to the departure of the largest majority of Canton's residents.—Reuter.

MURDERER STILL AT LARGE

No trace has yet been found of the man wanted by the police in connection with the double murder in Yaumati yesterday. It is believed that the suspect has escaped from the Colony by boat.

The younger sister injured in yesterday morning's savage amok was reported at the Kowloon Hospital this morning to be progressing favourably. The elder, 19, who like her sister attempted to save her mother, is not yet out of danger.

POLICE OFFERING LARGE EDWARD

A reward of $250 has been offered by the Police in connection with the disappearance of a junk from Tai Po Bay with a valuable cargo on board, together with seven foks. The bodies of two foks were found in the water near Pingchau Island recently and it is suspected that they were murdered by other members of the crew.

KOWLOON DOCKS MISHAP

A Chinese workman at Kowloon Docks, Wong Poo, was critically injured at 9 a.m. to-day when he fell from a height of 27 feet and fractured his skull.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

In the Colony of Hong Kong, including the Island, Kowloon and the New Territories during the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday last, there were altogether 75 traffic accidents, as the result of which five persons were killed and 37 persons were injured. Of the 75 accidents, 38 were collisions between vehicles; 22 were collisions between vehicles and pedestrians; and 15 accidents were due to other causes.

Chui Yuen, aged 31, a caretaker, admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital with severe head injuries after falling from a ladder at No. 23, Gap Road, died shortly after admission.

NORTH KIANGSU INUNDATED

Huaiyin, Kiangsu, To-day.

Vast areas in north Kiangsu are inundated as a result of the destruction of sections of dykes along the Grand Canal.

Chinese troops and peasants are working feverishly to close the gaps. Japanese broadcasts alleging that the breaches were made by Chinese troops are emphatically denied by the Chinese authorities.—Central News.

MATTER NOT CONSIDERED

London, To-day.

In a written Parliamentary answer to Mr. Erskine Hill, (Conservative, Edinburgh, North) who asked whether the Official Secrets Acts would be strengthened, so as avoid leakages of information in matters of national importance, the Attorney General said the question had not been considered.—British Wireless.

WAR ON DRUG TRAFFIC

Appearing before Mr. W. J. Lockhart Smith at the Central Magistracy this morning, Tse Kit, 34, unemployed, was charged with unlawful possession of 2.4 taels of prepared opium and 1.8 taels of raw opium, and with keeping an opium den in No. 5, Lee Yuen Street East, ground floor.

A fine of $120 or three months was imposed on the first charge, $36 or one month on the second and three months on the third.

Lee Chung, was sentenced to six months' hard labour and a fine of $798 or another four months' for the possession of 798 heroin pills at No. 4 Mercer Street 2nd floor.

Revenue Officer J. L. Stephens prosecuted.

Knocked down by a public car in Island Road yesterday, Chan Kee, a woman, was admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital suffering from injuries to the body.

COULD NOT LIFT ARMS ABOVE HEAD

Suffered Agonies with Rheumatism

This woman was practically crippled with agonising rheumatism in her back, arms and legs. For two months, she endured this painful condition, then, like many another sufferer, she decided to try Kruschen Salts. Read her letter:—

"About fifteen months ago, I had rheumatism in my arms, back and legs. The pain in my arms and legs after getting warm in bed were excruciating, especially in my arms. Also, after sitting for any length of time, I had to make several tries before I could get up. I was like that for two months, and could not reach above my head. I read so much about Kruschen Salts that I thought I would try them. I am so glad to say that for more than a year I have not had the slightest return of my rheumatism."—(Mrs.) H.E.

Do you realise what causes rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system.

FAR EAST THROUGH U. S. EYES

In these days, when Japan's plans for a drive on Hankow simultaneously with an extension of operations to South China may open a new phase in her war on China, it may be of interest to summarise the Far Eastern outlook as outlined from the distant perspective of Washington.

It appears that competent observers in the United States now incline toward the view consistently affirmed by the leaders of China and apparently being accepted at last by the more intelligent leaders of Japan, namely, that the war in the Far East has only just begun. In earlier Western estimates of the strengths and weaknesses of the two belligerents, certain miscalculations are now seen.

The operations at Shanghai and in southern Shantung indicate that most writers have overestimated the power and efficiency of Japan's military machine. But, at the same time, there has been a widespread tendency to underestimate her staying power, her national capacity to withstand the economic and financial attrition of a large-scale war. Strained for years before she undertook her present aggression, dependent on sales in overseas markets for the foreign imports she must have, and weakened financially by her armament burden and diminishing gold supply, Japan is often portrayed as approaching the point where her economic system is liable to crack.

But, as Germany showed twenty years ago, a disciplined, hardy nation can defy economic theories for a considerable period under war conditions. The Japanese are second to no people in discipline, patriotism, and national unity. They are also capable of "carrying on" under living standards and privations unknown in the West, provided that their will to endure is not undermined. Those familiar with the situation do not, for these reasons, see much likelihood that Japan will crack on the home front before another year has passed, or perhaps even two or three. If attrition is to bring a settlement acceptable to China, as the Hankow leaders hope, there is little prospect of such a settlement before 1939 or 1940.

Both Westerners and the Japanese have also underestimated the capacity of China for resistance. The Chinese people are unified against the invader as never in their history, and there is as yet no sign that this unity will break down. The modern leaders of China, many of them educated in American universities, are now solidly behind Chiang Kai-shek; these men have been gaining "face" progressively in the eyes of the nation, at the expense of those formerly powerful elements who might capitulate to save-guard their properties.

ADVERSARIA

AS PART of the labored effort to pump up enthusiasm over the "glorious victory" of Japanese arms at Hsuehchow, much had been made of the presumed intention to march straight through to Hankow. From some of the talk of the Japanese military and press, one gathers the impression that Shanghai and Nanking were the Nipponese breakfast dish, Hsuehchow was tiffin, and Hankow will be sort of a tea delicacy with the completion of a gruffy benevolent engulging of China as the dinner. Is it all as simple as that? We have seen a great deal to make us think that Hankow may still be regarded as a very hot potato, to be handled with care.

ONCE a hero, always a hero—especially to the hero himself.

ON THE face of it the demand that Shanghai International Settlement residents must produce a cholera inoculation certificate for entry into Japanese-controlled Hongkew district is seemingly a piece of ridiculous officiousness. An amusing extra feature is the kind exemption granted Diplomatic and Consular services—perhaps on the theory that no germs could thrive in the cold and arid expanses of their personal systems!

IT IS good to hear that the Army Council have made provisions for those "up against it." They have just recently issued amendments to the King's Regulations. May we draw your attention to Amendment 29, which reads:

"MILITARY KNIGHT OF WINDSOR

1. A candidate for appointment must be:
 - (a). Under sixty-five years of age.
 - (b). A 'gentleman' brought to necessity whose income does not amount to less than £200 or more than £500 per annum.

Think of these un-knighted knights battling against life armed only with a paltry £500 a year. These unfortunate gentlemen who may only get a pittance of £10 a week surely deserve our sympathy. Let us petition Heaven on their behalf, and lo! like Abhou Ben Adhem, our name shall lead the rest!

BY RAISING their prices to three cents the New York "Times" and "Herald Tribune" are rubbing salt in wounds. A man picking up a paper these days can be moderately certain he is in for a black half-hour, with ever headline freighted with disaster, every column and editorial carrying its note of sombre prophecy. To lift the price of calamity seems to us cruelly ill-timed.

MR. FORBES two-sentences speech at a recent press dinner shows that he keeps abreast of modern progress. Some of us can remember when Henry was about as silent as his "Model T."

TENSE DEBATE ON PRIVILEGES OF M.P.S.

Mr. Duncan Sandys Ordered Before Military Court

CRITICISM OF GOVERNMENT ATTITUDE

London, To-day.

The case of Mr. Duncan Sandys, unionist member for Norwood, whose draft of a parliamentary question on Britain's air defences brought him in conflict with the Official Secrets Act entered upon a new phase when the matter was debated in the House of Commons yesterday.

Mr. Sandys informed the House that as an officer of the Territorial Army, he had been ordered to appear in uniform before a Military Court of Inquiry.

He asked whether this invitation to appear before a Military Tribunal did not constitute a contravention of the privileges of the House of Commons.

He, therefore, asked the House to decide whether his case constituted a breach of the privileges of the House of Commons.

The Speaker declared that he was not in a position to decide whether a breach of this sort had occurred. He had merely to decide whether Mr. Sandys had created a prima facie case and his answer was in the affirmative. In other words, a Select Committee would have to be appointed to inquire whether a contravention of the privileges of the House and of the members had occurred.

SELECT COMMITTEE

Mr. Chamberlain rose to say that in view of the view expressed by the Speaker, it would be best to submit the whole matter to a Select Committee appointed by the House and he would like to introduce the corresponding motion.

Later on in the debate, the Prime Minister announced that Mr. Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, was prepared to defer military interrogation until the Select Committee had reached a decision. The War Office had taken this step because the Army Council had invited Mr. Sandys to give evidence as a witness.

INSULT TO PARLIAMENT

In the course of the ensuing debate, Major Attlee described the whole attitude of the Government in the Sandys Affair as an insult to Parliament.

The Prime Minister hereupon pointed out that in a case of this kind, where it was a question of disclosing secret information, action on the part of the Attorney General would follow automatically regardless of the attitude adopted by the Government in the matter.

Mr. Winston Churchill, father-in-law of Mr. Duncan Sandys spoke in support of the Prime Minister's motion to appoint a Select Committee. In taking this line, the Prime Minister had acted in accordance with the high traditions of Parliament.

Mr. Churchill then demanded that Mr. Sandys should not be subjected to compulsory interrogation as the case would first be examined by the select Committee.

PARLIAMENT PRIORITY

Sir Percy Harris, Opposition Liberal, claimed full priority for Parliament over the executive or gans of the government. The only contact Parliament had with the Army Council was through the person, of the Secretary for War who was the Chairman of the Army Council.

The Secretary for War could not dissociate himself from any action of the Army Council just as the government could not dissociate itself from a decision taken by the Secretary for War.

At this point, Mr. Chamberlain intervened with the remark that the Committee of Inquiry set up by the Army Council did not intend to investigate the reproaches levelled at Mr. Sandys but would have to examine the charges, made against another officer, of having passed on secret information.

The War Office had already promised to ask the Army Council to postpone the interrogation of this officer until the Select Committee had pronounced its verdict.

WAR OFFICE STATEMENT

Mr. Hore-Belisha said that Army Council was under the impression that an officer had been guilty of a breach of trust and hence the Army Council would have neglected its duty if it had failed to take immediate steps. He had straight with ordered the setting up of a Court of Inquiry which would on no account disregard the privileges and rights of Parliament. No member of the Army Council would take part in the inquiry and the Army Council would not arrive at a decision before the interrogation had been concluded.—Trans-Ocean.

DRAMATIC SEQUEL

Yesterday's developments in connection with the question of Parliamentary privilege raised in the Commons on Monday has had a dramatic sequel.

At the end of Commons question time, Mr. Duncan Sandys rose to address the Speaker and announced that, in his capacity as an officer of the Territorial Army, he had received orders to appear this morning, in uniform, to give evidence before the military court of enquiry set up by the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Eastern Command, in conformity with the decision of the Army Council made public by the War Office on Tuesday night.

Mr. Sandys appealed to the Speaker for guidance and said the question of how far it was permissible to compel a Member of Parliament to divulge a source of information used by him in discharge of his Parliamentary duties was in process of being considered by the House and, in those circumstances, he submitted it was gross breach of the privilege of the House that he should be summoned to give evidence before a military tribunal.

CASE MADE OUT

He asked the Speaker to declare that he had made out a prima facie case of breach of privilege.

The Speaker ruled that the member for Norwood had made out a prima facie case of breach of privilege and the matter was referred to the Committee of Privileges.—British Wireless.

AMBASSADOR NOT ENGAGED IN PEACE MISSION

SIR ARCHIBALD CLARK KERR, BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO CHINA, ACCOMPANIED BY MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF, ARRIVED IN THE EMPRESS OF RUSSIA FROM SHANGHAI THIS MORNING.

His Excellency refused to make a statement to the press but a member of his entourage told reporters that the trip to Hankow was not for the purpose of "peace talks," as had been reported recently.

Mr. E. Hall Patch, Economic Adviser to the British Embassy, Wing Comdr. Kirby, Air Attache, and Mr. Allen, private secretary, are travelling with the Ambassador.

Sir Archibald and his party crossed the harbour by special launch this morning and proceeded to Government House where, this morning, he was reported to be busily engaged on the telegrams that were waiting for him.

This afternoon, he will leave for Mountain Lodge where he will spend the night, and tomorrow morning he will proceed to Hankow by air.

Fear That Mexico May Become Second Spain

Washington, To-day.

Forty-two leaders of the Peace Societies, clergymen and trade unionists have petitioned President Roosevelt to actively support the democratically elected Mexican Government.

They expressed the fear that foreign funds and propaganda are now being used to stir up a revolt against President Cardenas which will lead to Mexico becoming the New World's Spain.

They further ask whether or not the United States has taken financial sanctions against Mexico, possibly on account of British pressure?

The petitioners call on President Roosevelt to strengthen President Cardenas against intervention, "whether from Germany, Italy, Japan or the armed representatives of British oil interests."

The signers of the petition are predominately Trade Unionists.—Reuter.

TUESDAY'S MEMEL RIOTS

Trans-Ocean messages from Koenigsberg state that one Memel youth was killed, and several Memel Germans wounded in the riots.

About seven thousand German Memellander had assembled at the harbour for the arrival and departure of the German steamer "Hansestadt Danzig" on Tuesday evening, when according to German reports, they were stoned by Lithuanian dockworkers. When Memel police, consisting of Memel Germans, attempted to push the dockworkers off, firing occurred and the 16-year-old son of a Lithuanian border guard was fatally wounded.

SHOWERS OF WATER

Lithuanian quarters admit that the crowd greeting the German steamer was showered with water from the Lithuanian icebreaker "Perkunas" anchored in the harbour.

The report of the Lithuanian Telegraph Agency gives as the reason for the clash between the Germans and the Lithuanians and the Lithuanian dockworkers, that officials were hindered by the Germans from carrying out their duty.—Trans-Ocean.

VALUE OF BRITISH GOLD HOLDINGS

London, To-day.

The value of Britain's gold holdings have increased by a further £18,000,000, totalling on March 31, 1938, £835,000,000 as compared with £817,000,000 on September 30, 1937, and £703,600,000 on March 31, 1937.

DOMINIONS PART IN FOREIGN

The Prime Minister was called at 10.15 a.m. to a recent special meeting of the Dominion Ministers. The Prime Minister was asked if, in the light of the Dominion Government's policy on foreign affairs, it would take steps to bring machinery with a view to adequate consultation on aspects of foreign policy.

Mr. Chamberlain's House is aware that covering the system of consultation and consultation of Majesty's several foreign affairs are established. The machinery sent in force, has given full effect to the present system. The present system is constantly watched and maintained in the United Kingdom.

DOMINION'S POSITION

Asked if the Dominion Governments would have the opportunity to help shape the British foreign policy and not be asked merely to approve or disapprove of particular aspects of it, the Prime Minister replied, "As Mr. Menzies said. CZECH PARLEY ON MINORITIES

Prague, To-day. Germany made strong representations to the Czechoslovakian Government yesterday against the attitude adopted by the Czech educational authorities in Bruenn and other towns in allowing teachers to tolerate singing by school-children of a song vilifying Adolf Hitler.

The same song it is declared in the German protest has been sung in other parts of Czechoslovakia by soldiers on the march and was recently also sung by the Sokols on the occasion of the Sokol festival in Prague.

The German Minister in Prague has requested the Czech Foreign Office to take immediate steps to put an end to this untenable state of affairs and to take an action against those responsible.—Trans-Ocean.

AGREEMENT IN PRINCIPLE IN DEBT TALKS

London, To-day. Informed quarters here declare that the Anglo-German debts negotiations have made such satisfactory progress that an agreement "in principle" has now been reached on all most important points.

The negotiations, however, will be continued since several minor details of the extremely comprehensive problems have not yet been settled to mutual satisfaction.

Although the British as well as the German representatives remain reticent towards the press, it may be regarded as certain that the danger of an Anglo-German trade war, with eventual compulsory clearing, which appeared to be imminent some time ago, has now been definitely overcome. While it has not yet been decided whether a new agreement will be concluded, it may be regarded as certain that the agreement hitherto in existence will be prolonged beyond July 1, if the negotiations are not concluded by that time.

FOUR POINTS

According to a reliable information agreement in principle has been reached with regard to four points:

- (1) Germany takes over the Austrian loan and agrees to pay interest.
- (2) The interest rates of Young and Dawes loans will be lowered.
- (3) Britain is willing that a certain percentage of sterling receipts from Anglo-German commercial transactions are set aside for financing Germany's raw material purchases in the British Empire.
- (4) Endeavours will be made to facilitate a settlement of Germany's increased financial liabilities by granting concessions to German exporters in certain British Colonies and possibly also Dominions. — Trans-Ocean.

H.K. MINES: LEAD PRICES

Presiding this morning at the annual meeting of Hong Kong Mines, Ltd., Mr. C. C. Stark said:—

But for the calamitous drop in the price of Lead from $37 per ton to something in the neighbourhood of $13, our showing would have been very much better. I would remind you however, that in mining, where so much time has to be given to experiment and development in the first year, a loss can generally be anticipated. If however lead had maintained its price we would have been able to make a very handsome profit.

Since the date of Messrs. Nielson and Co.'s reports, our stock of 3,765 tons concentrates has been sold to buyers in Europe exclusively. Earlier sales would have been made but for the fact that Nielson and Co. felt there was every prospect that prices would improve, while they also were negotiating for sale of one year's output on very favourable terms in Manila; unfortunately this sale fell through at the last moment.

I would explain that payment for concentrates is made on the average price of the calendar month following the month of arrival. With the exception of initial shipments of 250 tons therefore, the price we will receive, will be based on the average price for July and August.

REDUCING EXPENSES

Everything possible has been done to reduce expense to a minimum, and we are making another effort to secure a further reduction in freight rates, as present rates handicap us a lot.

As previously advised, we are contemplating increasing the milling machinery to handle a further 100 tons per day. This can be done at comparatively little cost, as provision for this addition was made when the mill building was erected. Although the cost of labour will be slightly increased, the general overhead will not be increased in any way.

In conclusion, I would reiterate that our success or failure is entirely dependent on the price of Lead. We can only say that from the number of inquiries we have received lately, we sincerely trust that demand of this product will shortly rise to its former levels.

I am glad to say that our product has been found very acceptable by Smelters in Europe, and we have secured smelting charges considerably below present current rates. I now formally propose the adoption of the Report and Accounts as presented. Seconded by Mr. Wong Kit Wan, the resolution was carried unanimously.

Messrs. David Wai Kwok Au and J. M. Wong were re-elected Directors, and Messrs. T. A. Martin and Co. were elected Auditors for the ensuing year.

American Floored For Four Long Counts

T.K.O. DECISION FOR WORLD CHAMPION

Glasgow, To-day.

Fighting at catch-weights Benny Lynch, the Scottish holder of the world flyweight title, beat Jackie Jurich, of America, the Referee stopping the fight in the 12th of a fifteen round encounter.

Benny Lynch weighed in at 8 st. 6½ lb. while Jurich made the scales at 7 st. 12½ lb.

There were 10,000 spectators present when the American dazzled in the first round with some fine footwork, which kept him clear of danger from straight ones and long-lefts by Lynch.

JURICH DOWN

In the seventh round Lynch chased the American round the ring, but Jurich retaliated with toe-toe exchanges, but was sent crashing to the boards from a terrific right to the head, taking a count of eight. He had hardly risen when he was down again for another count of eight.

He displayed amazing pluck, however, and won the admiration of the crowd in the eighth round when he was twice down for counts of nine.

Benny Lynch eased up and then in the 12th round landed a terrific right to the jaw, and while the timekeeper was counting, the Referee stopped the fight and awarded the decision to the Scot on a technical knockout.—Reuter.

HENLEY ENTERS
NEW PHASEARTISANS COMPETE FOR FIRST TIME

London, To-day.

Henley Regatta entered a new phase yesterday under the revised amateur status rule, under which artisan scullers are allowed to compete for the first time.

A strong, north-westerly wind made scientific rowing difficult.

In the diamond sculls, the American champion J. Burk beat the artisan W. Hayward, of Chiswick, easily in 8 minutes 51 seconds.

The Artisans Metropolitan Police beat Barclay's Bank in a heat for the Thames Cup.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIANS' GOOD START
AGAINST DERBY

London, To-day.

The Australians made a good start in their match against Derbyshire, at Chesterfield, and at the close of play had dismissed their hosts for 151 and had scored 191 for the loss of one wicket.

W. A. Brown, hero of the second Test Match, was undefeated for 104 while C. L. Badcock, who recorded a "pair of spectacles in the Second Test, was also unbeaten for 59.

Ward was the most successful of the Tourists' bowlers, taking 5 for 45.

Derby: 151 (Worthington 87; Ward 5 for 45).
Australians: 191 for 1, (J. H. Fingleton 23; W. A. Brown 104 not out; C. L. Badcock 59 not out).

BOWLING GREEN CLUB'S TRIUMPH

R. HALL'S RINK SAVE K.F.C. RECORD

Club de Recreio's Triple Win

(By "SKIP")

LAST Saturday's lawn bowls programme was one of the most interesting of the season and, although there were one or two surprises, the Civil Servants beat the Police, for instance, most games finished pretty well in accordance with general expectations. Club de Recreio secured triple wins, the teams being nearly 80 shots up in their three games, while Kowloon Bowling Green Club achieved a feat they have not done for many years. In overcoming Craigengower, they have made the race for honours very interesting again and much interest will be taken in their meeting with Kowloon Cricket Club, on Saturday.

In the Second Division, Taikoo did well to beat Police and, in doing so, secured their third consecutive victory. Craigengower were fully expected to beat Kowloon Bowling Green Club, but the magnitude of the score was wholly unexpected. Kowloon Cricket Club were given a trouncing by Craigengower, at the Valley, and are not proving nearly as strong as anticipated.

Kowloon Football Club very nearly came a cropper at Kowloon, but with "the shot of the season," Bob Hall won the game by scoring seven on the very last head of the game.

Although up on two rinks, Kowloon Bowling Green Club had much to thank Ernie Lines for, regarding the magnitude of their victory, as he overcame U.M. Omar by 20 shots and on the day's play was good value for the win. Guy re-appeared after an absence of two or three weeks and strengthened the rink, his drawing to the jack being excellent. The whole rink played well and it is a tribute to Gomes to say that he just had the edge on Cheesman.

NOT CONSISTENT

Whiteman played some brilliant shots, but was not nearly consistent enough, whilst the younger Omar was right off his game, a fact which became obvious because his opposite number was playing so well. "U.M." played well, but the position was always against him, a remark which applies to Bradbury, in his game against Meyer.

With two new men in his rink, the Craigengower skip was nearly always "Up against it": added to which was the fact that the home skip was in great form.

Bradbury also played a very fine game and was not having much of the rub of the green. Bob Duncan and Dick Basa had a great struggle, with the latter scoring the only win for the visitors.

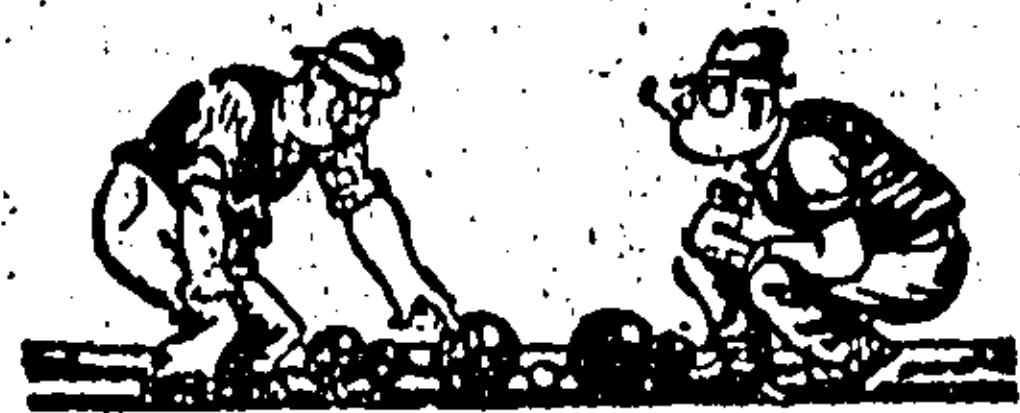

Although he began his scoring with a nap-hand on the second head, the Valley player scored on only nine ends, but his 2 shot victory was well earned. "Dick" was drawing some pretty shots, but he had Charlie Rosselet to thank for many of the chances to do so, for the latter broke up several heads to leave the "Kitty" open.

ONE MAN SHOW

It was a one-man show at King's Park, where the Portuguese Club entertained Kowloon Cricket Club, for F. X. Silva had a big win against Jimmy Hyde to retain the 2 points. Dick Alves was all square with Ernie Kern, scoring on the last 8 heads to achieve that result, whilst Teddy Fincher retained his unbeaten record by narrowly beating Luz. This latter match produced a rare battle between the two skips, the situation repeatedly changing: Xavier met more than his match in Silketone, who was right on form. The fifth head was an unfortunate one for Jimmy Hyde against F. X. Silva. With the enemy counting five, he drew a beautiful second shot, but was heavy with his next, and removed the one wood which was covering his saviour. Silva saw the opportunity and rested his second shot out heavily, to score seven. Ernie Kern had a useful leader in Vic Labrum, whilst Craig did a vast amount of good work to enable his rink (who had their full share of whatever luck that was going) to tie Dick Alves, who was also in great form again.

FULL VALUE FOR WIN

Winning on two rinks, and being down by only a singleton on the other, the Civil Servants were full value for that he was down by a singleton. The first three men on the Police side were usually beating the home trio, leaving Randle with pretty well everything to do to make a fight of it.

He played a wonderful game to almost save his side from defeat and with a less reliable opponent might have pulled off a victory, for Ted Post drew some delightful shots at vital moments. On one notable occasion he drew through the narrowest of ports to secure the shot and save a count.

DOCK'S NARROW WIN

The Indians made several positional changes for their game against Kowloon Dock, who, due to a social event which many of their players attended, appeared to have a weak team out. Fred Cullen came to the fore with a smashing win against Arculli, who could make no impression on the old Interporter and scored on only 4 heads. Whilst his front men were not quite up to standard, their play appeared worse than it was by the brilliance of the opposition, prominent amongst whom was Tom Coleman.

In a low scoring game Sammy Gray skipped his side to a one-shot win, their win against the Police. Sherriff had a very useful win over Carey, leading all the way to finish up 10 to the good, after blanking his opponent out for 8 heads, at one period. During this time 16 shots were chalked up and, although good all the way through, it was during this spell that Burling and McGowan excelled. The latter was brilliant, and Sherriff had little to do for a while, but was always handy when the situation later on became unfavourable.

Jack Hollidge and Wally Mair had a very close game with the former, emerging the victor by 4 shots, thanks to a 3 on the last head.

Sam Randle was a host unto himself against Ted Post, in spite of the fact whilst J. C. Brown and Dallah, shared the spoils, thanks to a good recovery by the latter, who scored 6 in the last three heads.

TAIKOO SHINE

The best performance in the Second Division was that of the Taikoo, who had a good win on the Police Green, largely due to the eight which Tom Stainton scored in the last couple of heads. With the visitors down two shots all round, at that stage, they obtained 10 shots to their host's singleton, to record an unexpected win.

Although Craigengower literally swamped Kowloon Bowling Green Club, the hugeness of their score

"REVIEWER'S" SPORTS COMMENTARY

H.K.F.A. To Have Larger First Division?

Though entries for the different divisions of the Hong Kong Football League close to-morrow, according to the rules, I am told that no club has yet sent in any entries and will probably not do so till after the Annual General Meeting of the Association.

But by the end of July, the Council will have decided on the composition of the different divisions.

The topic of soccer at this time of the year holds no lure to footballers, who, under the present weather conditions, are concerned with other pastimes and who will not be interested till the advent of the cooler weather.

An anxious time will probably be spent over the First Division, as the Navy, who dropped out last year owing to the political tension in China, have intimated their intention of competing again, and I feel that their inclusion must be accepted as a matter of fact.

Added to this, Kwong Wah, winners of the Junior Shield Competition and third in the Second Division, are also applying for admission to the First Division, and it is difficult to see them being excluded.

Kwong Wah have by their conduct on the field of play and their position in the Second Division, earned the right to apply, and I am sure that their case will receive sympathetic consideration.

Two seasons ago, the Eastern and Kowloon Chinese were admitted to the First Division simply because they were able to show the Association that they had a number of First Division players who had joined them from other clubs!

home four all played well, Medina and his skip being outstanding.

HAD NO LUCK

Marcus Souza had over a dozen to spare against Drake, who had no luck with some brilliant heavy shots. Randall, as third man in the home rink, was in splendid form and lent valuable support to his skip.

Tommy Armstrong in losing by half a dozen to Bill Way, achieved the best performance for the visitors. After both sides had scored a nap, hand, Way securing his on the first head of the game. Armstrong had a lead of a couple of shots with 8 ends to go, but Way effectively blanked him out to score 8 in that period and win by half-a-dozen.

CLUB "DERBY" MATCH

The Football Club's two teams met and although "B" made a better showing than when they last played, the "A" combination more than upheld their prestige, only Jan Tuck, of the junior team, recording a win. Trailing Brooksbank by 6 shots at the 16th head of a low-scoring game, the "B" player scored on the remaining ends to win by a singleton.

Jack Rodger piled on the agony against Jake Selby, being 21 to the good at the finish, Jock Russell proving a tower of strength to his skip whilst Walter Gill, in the happy position of having the same rink each week, was a dozen or so to the good against Haynes, and was well worth the win.

COULD MAKE NO IMPRESSION

Although B. Basto required a two on the last head to win his match, the Civil Servants could make no impression on the Recreio, who far too good for them on the other two rinks, and had a margin of 30 shots. F. X. Soares, although only two up when two thirds of the heads had been played, ran up a big total subsequently and had well over a dozen to spare, as did J. J. Basto, in his match against Cullip.

SNATCHED VICTORY

In the match between Kowloon Tong and the Kowloon Football Club, on which I have already commented briefly, Bob Hall snatched (there is no other word for it) both the points from the sub-urbanites, with his second last wood.

The home team were three to the good and lying the first shot, when Hall came through as narrow a port as any wood ever went through, and forced the shot out to count no less than six, then changing his hand he drew another, and Tony Basto, probably due to the tenseness of the occasion, was not able to save. A great finish! Hall had matters all his own way after the ninth head: Four down at that stage, he pulled up to win by 16. Fergusson was severely beaten by Spary, but Joe Gibson was able to get the better of Harry Gittins by just a few shots.

AN UPSET

The Electricians were expected to beat the Football Club, even at the Valley, but the home team just had the better of their opponents, Walker's five-shot win being the biggest one of the games. The Yacht Club were no match for Recreio, at King's Park, and went down by a big minority, only Murdoch making a good fight in losing to Yvanovich by a couple.

Craigengower played a similar tune to the Kowloon Cricket Club, whom they overcame by over 80: Lillcrap had a big win against Brown, in the latter's debut match as skip, whilst Zimmermann was always ahead of Carr. The remaining match, between Alves and Nish was touch and go until the last head, when the homester secured a two to win by four points.

"BUNNY" DISPOSES OF HENNER HENKEL IN ONLY ONE HOUR

Ladies Doubles Holders Enter Semi-Final

BOROTRA AND MRS. WILLS MOODY ELIMINATED!

London, To-day.

Donald Budge (U.S.A.) the holder, and H. W. "Bunny" Austin (Gt. B.) will contest the final of the Men's Singles Championship, at Wimbledon, as a result of yesterday's play in the semi-final round, when the former beat Puncec, of Yugoslavia, in straight sets, and Austin eliminated Henner Henkel, one of Europe's best singles player, in similar style.

Austin was very cool and confident against Henkel who played as well as he was allowed to. Austin, with machine-like accuracy and beautiful passing shots never displayed any brilliance and took only one hour to beat one of Europe's best singles players.

Henkel was constantly being forced into errors, particularly on the backhand, by Austin's uncanny placing and anticipation.

In the first set, Henkel secured the first game, but Austin reeled the next five off in a row to lead 5-1, Henkel taking the seventh following which, Austin secured the first set.

In the second Henkel led his British opponent 2-1, 3-2, 4-3 and was hitting harder and serving particularly well, but Austin was unperturbed and took the next three games in a row for the set and, in the last stanza, played beautiful tennis to secure the set at love and the match.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES

In the Quarter-Finals of the Women's Doubles Championships, the holders Mme. Mathieu (France) and Miss A. M. "Billy" Yorke (Gt. B.) entered the semi-final round as a result of beating the strong Anita Lizana-Peggy Scriven combination in straight sets.

Britain stand an excellent chance of being represented in another final, the Men's Doubles Championship, if G. P. Hughes and F. H. D. Wilde maintain their form. Yesterday they entered the Semi-final round of the event when they beat Cejnar (Yugoslavia) and C. E. Malfroy (N. Zealand) in four sets

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF AN OVERCALL

Dr. Richard Ecker, a New York dentist, won the recently completed Masters Individual Championship by the close margin of one point over his nearest competitor. This event, which is played annually, consists of 36 players, each contestant playing four hands

as the partner of every other player in the tournament.

While all the players are experts, many of them have different bidding theories, and in the ability to adjust himself to the various styles of bidding Dr. Ecker outshone all the other participants. The following hand contributed to his victory!

The bidding:

1♠	3♠	3NT	Pass
5♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass	—	—

After Dr. Ecker's opening one-diamond bid West attempted a shut-out bid of three spades. When North made the free bid of three notrump, Dr. Ecker felt that his long trump suit might pave the way to a Slam and jumped to five diamonds. North was of course justified in bidding six diamonds, and that became the final contract.

When West opened the Jack of hearts, Dr. Ecker saw that he could get rid of one of his club losers by a spade finesse. However, this would still leave him with the King and one club, and it looked very much as though West's three-spade bid had marked him with the Ace. Having arrived at this conclusion, Dr. Ecker went one step further. West undoubtedly had an extremely long spade suit, which probably included all the missing honours. Thus a squeeze on West was the only possible way to fulfill the contract.

After winning the opening lead with dummy's Ace of hearts, Declarer simply ran off all eight trumps. Forced to keep his spades protected, West discarded down to the King-Jack-ten and the blank Ace of clubs. On the last trump lead Dr. Ecker discarded the nine of spades from dummy, leaving the Ace-Queen of spades and two small clubs. He then played a low club from his hand and when West's Ace dropped, he fulfilled his contract.

Oddly enough, if West had opened a spade, he would have saved himself from being squeezed and the hand could not have been made!

H.K. CHINESE SCHOOL HEAD SHOT DEAD

Hankow, To-day.

Miss Yu Wei-hua, 31-year-old representative on the People's Political Council, was murdered here yesterday morning by a gunman who fired three shots into the head of the girl as she was having a bath. The gunman escaped unnoticed.

While investigations are progressing, it is popularly believed that the motive behind the crime might be attributed to jealousy.

The deceased was found lying face-down on the bathroom floor, her face shattered beyond recognition by three bullets, while in one hand she still held a letter, with a request for immediate reply written on the envelope, which had apparently been handed her by the gunman.

It is believed that the sender's name was given in lieu of a pretext for delivering the letter by the gunman, who entered the girl's residence and opened fire while she was opening the envelope, which contained clippings from a daily paper's editorials.

HUSBAND IN H.K.

The dead girl's husband is believed to be in Hong Kong. The deceased was a former prominent

Tokyo, To-day.

An odd result of the torrential downpours of the last two or three days, there comes to-day a report from Observatory officials that a new lake has been discovered on the top of Mount Fujiyama.

The gale carried away the snow which nestles round Fuji's summit, exposing the lake.

Owing to the typhoon threat, all shipping in Yokohama has suspended the working of cargo and are awaiting the "blow" with full steam up.

It is feared that the typhoon will prove a severe one.

According to a report received this morning from Haraki Province, the city of Tutishura is completely under water, while thirty lives have been lost in Kangawa Province where nearly 100,000 people have been rendered homeless by the floods.

the engine was a nun, evidently seriously ill. Smothered in blankets, despite the intense heat, she was carried in a stretcher to a waiting ambulance and taken away to hospital.

BLUEJACKET'S STORY

A British bluejacket told the "China Mail," "I don't suppose there are many foreigners left in Hankow now although judging by the huge crowd that came down to the station to see us off, I should not be surprised if quite half have remained."

"There have been no raids on Hankow for some time. I saw both the last big raids when the Japanese lost so many planes. We saw some thrilling sights too. Planes roaring round each other, pilot after pilot balling out and floating gracefully down by parachute. The Japs evidently learned their lesson and are keeping away now. They never did much damage when they did come over anyway, certainly not enough to compensate for the planes and the men they lost."

The bluejacket went on to say that a few days ago, when he was being treated in hospital in Hankow, he met a Russian pilot, who had met with a slight injury in combat. According to this pilot, the Japanese, once they realised that an enemy plane had got on their tails, were just dummies. They didn't know what to do and were invariably shot down.

UNEVENTFUL TRIP

Asked about the trip down, the bluejacket said that it had been entirely uneventful. No planes had been seen. "We are held up on numerous occasions, however, by up trains packed with troops. They are being sent up to Hankow in thousands. They look very young and inexperienced."

Among the piles of luggage brought down, is the "China Mail" understand, that belonging to the German Ambassador, Dr. Trautmann.
